Grade 3-6 The ten Rosso children desperately want a pet, but their mother's firmest rule is ``No pets. Ten kids is enough." How they finally succeed makes for a somewhat predictable but good-natured story. One chapter is devoted to each child in the family, giving readers a brief and often telling insight into each character.

One of these rules is No Pets, 10 children is enough. All of the children are unhappy about this rule, particularly since they are now living in the country where it would be so easy to have a pet. The rest of the book is about life in the country, changing schools, life in a big family and the holidays. A great book for younger children 6-8.
